Gender city woman fear discrimination: I was going on a hunting trip with my new boat, and my mom called me up twice and told me. "God told me you were going to die on the hunting trip." When I was a child, I did not see how much women worry. My mom and women friend's have bought things for me, so I would be safer. People worry about me, and others being a shooter. People that yell and barker are less harmless than people that don't. I have been around heavy equipment barkers push to limit bully and never fear them other than firing me. Barker bullies famous words are, "you got 3 weeks to shape up, or you out of here." When I am fearful, or angry, I try not take out on other people. I was very careful talking to women in HR because of fear. I would go mountain biking with the mountain bike club, and I am very fearful going down hills on a mountain bike at first, and this young woman would go past me going down the hill and frighten me on purpose and laugh at me. Never seen hyper fear so bad as the MOA. Heavy equipment industry is man dominated. When I was younger, I had more fear than lot of people my age. I am big man and women and men are very fearful of me. At a dance this weekend I showed interest in a women, and she got very afraid of me.

Political discrimination: In politics I vote for the person rather than the party. I believe the more parties you have the better you are because it even things out. People like to talk to me about politic because so open minded I am. I have deep understanding of economics.

Mental disability discrimination: I have seen people suffer from mental disability more than me at transit. I have very little fear of my mental disability. A person job can be the best thing for their mental disability, and that is what being mechanic did to me. I saw very little unsafeness because of my mental disability. Burnouts and mental illness is very common in this heavy equipment industry. The three best mechanics at a truck dealership were burnouts. When I came to transit and worked at other places I was more stable.

Bullying: when I looked up discrimination, bully in the work place came up. I have read many books on bully in the work place. The bully books help me the most on my mental illness. If we talk more about mental illness, I think it would help.

Palmer and Wasilla people getting promoted over: when I was in the Wasilla, I had to sign up on the valley Labor union list. When I lived in Anchorage, I could not sign up on the Wasilla list for work.

Introvert discrimination: I am deep introvert and some extrovert in me. Most good vehicle technician are introverts. I am very high energy introvert more anybody at transit. When people come to work they're going to do what makes them happy. If it is sitting around talking that is what they're going to do. Most farmers are Introverts.

Physical disability: I am in the top 99 percent of physical ability in Anchorage, and when I was younger I was skinner than most women. I have a far reach because I am tall. Short people would have me reach for things.

Religion discrimination: Music in the shop. Because of my deep religious beliefs, motivation books and leadership books, I was the most stable person at transit at first.

Retaliation: my attorney, me, and other people saw this. This is big for my attorney.

Marital status discrimination: I see single people better in our carrier because we have lot time to focus on our carrier.

Age discrimination: I was 65 years when the MOA terminated me.

Had to go to washday to become technician: Many people convince me to go too washday to become a technician. I need the contract from the union to see if this was true. The union and the city need to start following my directives.

When I get to washday a supervisor told me, I would never be a technician: Why would a supervisor do this that supervisor is live, and his name is Gus. This cost me eighty thousand dollars in a two year degree and eleven welding classes and many other things.

Promotion: I would study, and get training for every interview. I am very highly skilled do some thing different class A technician and safe.

Discipline Arbitration: Some of these disciplines happened during the other union. The union, and the MOA needs to start to follow my directive on contracts in the past because when I came technician 2 I had to do PMs for six months because people was worrying about HR would fire me. The supervisor before Mark Harlamert said, "down town was the problem." HR has put fear in supervisors for long time.

I was told in equal rights if I win one discrimination I win all of them.

Hire vets. Fleet maintenance hurry and wait vehicle technician in the military are not liked in the vehicle repair industry.. I hear Mark Harlamert's dad was high rank in the military and after the military both of their parents worked for the MOA. I believe Mark's mom worked for transit and that is how Mark got his job at transit. Mark Harlamert is the biggest no brainer fleet maintenance low documented technician I ever met. There are people in the vehicle repair industry are very smart, but never was mechanic and Mark was one of them.

Farms and country white child origin discrimination: Me, Terry Kelly, and Hon Anderson are hard working white country people as children. When I went to heavy equipment college most of the students were white farmers' children, then white logging children, and then white construction children. When I go hunting down the Yukon river, I see white people mostly. When I go snow machine, I see white people mostly. When I go dip netting with my boat on the Kenia river, I see white people mostly. When go hiking with a hiking group, I see mostly white people. When I go up to Lake Louise, I see white people. When I listen to country western music, it is white people. I went dancing Saturday night and there were young white country people dancing.
